This spiral-bound volume gives just enough space for reflective writing without being overwhelming. Each day provides a scripture verse and space to write: half a page Monday-Saturday and a full page for Sunday. Scattered throughout the book are color photographs and quotes from spiritual leaders. I always want to journal but get overwhelmed by the blank page -- this is something small and manageable that I can do each evening before bed to spend a few minutes in reflection. I highly recommend it for a beginning journaler or someone who wants to have daily devotion/prayer time but struggles with the discipline.

Nice set of books; guide and studying with a small group.

This journal is a beautiful resource in both text and graphics. Close attention has been paid to choosing scriptures as well as short pieces of poetry and essays for each day. The photography is wondrous in its beauty and scope. I gave a dozen of these as gifts and received rave reviews from the recipients.

This is not at all what I thought it was going to be. I'm sorry I purchased it. There are many many books on grief which are much better.

These are really great! Wonderful pictures, inspiring scriptures everyday, and plenty of room to record the days events or whatever is on your mind. Great for reflection.

I use this as a journal at the end of the day. I enjoy the quotes from the Bible and the wonderful photographs throughout the book. It has a spiral binding which makes it easy to use.

Have used this product many years now. I find it so easy to keep up with the lectionary since our minister uses it as a basis for sermons and Sunday worship.

When I opened my 2011 "Journeying" today, I made it a priority to write a review. In the introduction, R. Grace Imathiu writes, "...may these photographs keep you company, inspire and engage you, and shed light on the terrain of your inner life." The scriptures, the quotes, and the photographs have been great company all year. This journal invites you to "visit" as often as you'd like...to stay a while, to meditate, to practice gratitude, and to look forward to your next visit. There's enough space for me to journal, to keep track of my fitness activities, and to note my accomplishments. The full page on Sunday is a treat indeed. The photographs are frame-worthy. I've selected so many for framing that I'm sure I need to order another journal - just for the photographs. R. Grace Imathiu also writes in the introduction that journaling is self-care. In a very quiet and spiritual way, this journal reminds me to take care of myself. What a blessing. Thank you to The Upper Room for this very nice gift.
