We love all the research guides for MTH. They are written at a higher Lexile level than the stories but it makes them fun to read together. My 6 year old doesn't have the patience to read through a research guide the entire way through on her own but together it makes for a fun project...she gets to tell me about what happened in the story to Jack & Annie and together we learn some fun facts about whatever time/place the story was about.

I've bought several of Mary Pope Osborne "Fact-Tracker" books for my grandson who was 8 1/2, now 9 yrs old. He really likes them, particularly this one, which he read after watching Shark Week on TV. He enjoys the non-fiction books even more than the accompanying fiction ones. These were excellent summer reading for him as he prepares for 4th grade. All of her books are appropriate for 3rd grade, early 4th grade levels, and I've watched my grandson's reading skills improve as he's been reading them.

This was a great book that my son had to read for a book report. He's the type of kid that won't just pick up a book unless he has to and I downloaded this one and he wouldn't put it down. In fact, he read it in one night. Fairly easy read for a 3rd grader. Filled with lots of interesting facts and pictures. I even learned some things myself. Now that he's read some of the other magic tree house books he's interested in getting more of these companion books.

It took some coaxing to get him into the book, but once he did my son loved it. We incorporate the companion books to homeschool to add more to the Magic Tree House series.

It's an okay book and it is nice to have a children's book worthwhile. My son didn't want to finish this.

My son is 8 years old and I can't get him to read anything. No book will keep his interest at all, until we stumbled upon Magic Tree House - Research Guide. Now I am thrilled that he will lay on his bed and read a few chapters at a time

The book is really informative, but the format is a little off for my kindle fire. The illustrations are a bit lacking as well. They are drawn in black and white. It's rich in content, but my five year olds would appreciate more digital age content.

MTH books are a favorite of my daughter! When I saw this particular book on dolphins and sharks, I knew it would be a must have as she has an interest in marine life!!
